INFORMATION FOR INTERNATIONAL APPLICANTS

The Master of Physical Therapy (MPT) Program at California State University, Northridge (CSUN) is designed for individuals who want to become eligible for licensure as a physical therapist within the United States (U.S.) and who have completed at least a Bachelor's Degree in some other area. Our MPT Program is entry-level and is not appropriate for those who are already trained as physical therapists.

Individuals who have already completed a program leading to a license, or a Bachelor's Degree, or higher degree in Physical Therapy are not accepted. This is true for those trained in the U.S. and in other countries. The MPT Program at CSUN does accept applications from international students who meet qualifications for entry, but does not accept those individuals who have already completed a Physical Therapy Program in their country.

Physical therapists from the U.S. and from other countries who are seeking advanced degrees or advanced training in Physical Therapy should contact universities or other institutions which offer the advanced or transitional Doctor of Physical Therapy (DPT) Degree. For additional information regarding international students, please refer to Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs).
